Fluctuations on Account of the Decision in the Northern Securities Case.

A SHARP BREAK CAUSED

Only Reaffirmed State of Things Which Had Already Been Established by Lower Court.

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, March 14.—The long-expected decision in the Northern Securities case resulted in a feverish and halting stock market to-day. The fluctuations were constant and irregular, and the vol-ums of business was much incredsed over the recently prevailing daily average. The action of the market, however, was not conclusive in deciding the ques-tion whether the decision of the cour-had already been discounted.

The fact that the decision reaffirms a state of things which had already been

The fact that the decision reaffirms a state of things which had already been established by the lower court in the case as well as the closeness with which it conforms to the expectation had for sometime by the financial community, indicate that whatever preparations have been made for the decision will not have to be modified. The action of the market seems to show that there was no great speculative, account open on the decision, beyond such small trading as has been done each week, only to be closed up as soon as the case on of the court revealed a further ponement.

In 10-day's market traders of this class had see about covering their short contracts before noon, having come to be made. The announcement of the actual decision caused it sharp break, but prices subsequently ralled to the highest of the day, which was well above Saturday's level. The existence of support in Northern Securities stock itself on the curb helped to rally the general market. The subsequent feverish fluctualloms seemed largely due to the tentative efforts of traders to find the prevalent tendency of the market. The tendency of the market the tendency of the market action on the strength of hast build helped to the tentative efforts of traders to find the prevalent tendency of the market action on the strength of hast builders into which the market color may be understant to the common was taken to mean that the large interest concerned were not likely to take precipitate stock market action on the strength of hast builders into which the market cell and duliners into which the market cell and furners into the opinions as they were faint to the conditions formed by the decision and the market became practically inactive at the last.

NEW YORK, March 14.—The cotton market opened steady to firm with the old crop unchanged to 8 points lower, while the new crop positions were 10-11 points higher on continued reports of dry weather and early appearance of boil weavil. The opening losses on the near months were less than due on the cables, for white it appeared that the room element were inclined to take a bearish view of the situation as a result of the disappointing spot sales in Liverpool and expensional anding tendency, there was a fair demand at the opening from scattering sources, attracted presumably by the strong showing of Saturday's markets, and at first also the loade bull leader and New Orleans were buyers. After recovering the early loss and selling up to a shade over Saturday's finals, however, the market turned sasier.

The Houston ustimate, while light as compared with last year, was still rather above recent average, suggesting the accuracy of predictions of a froor movement is the immediate finites, and the light as compared with last year, was still rather above recent average, suggesting the accuracy of predictions of a froor movement is the immediate finite, and Liverpool shead continues weakness with additional for clothe. Shortly feating apat people and prices began to work flower, as they declined the room became more argressively bearish, bull support was partially withdrawn and the market troke about 3250 points on the active positions. At this level the local buil leader began buying the summer months, and there was some covering for early selfers tiking profits. This led to a raily of about 15 points, but in the early eftermon the list again washened and broke through the previous and the market two worked upward on a renewal of buil support, and at man, but he gave his wives to understand that he was their lord in all the word implies. If two of his wives person to quarrel, the elder in point of service would at once ask the president to see her in the 'scrap' room. There each wife would tell her story, and the president would give his decision. No wife was permitted to murmur if the dag went against her. "In this way order was kept, and if the plural wives entertained bitter feelings toward each other, they wisely kept it secret. Mrs. Angell was a maternal cousin of Levi P. Morton, of New York."
